Let me introduce myself. I'm Dr. Pat Bradley, a holistic veterinarian, certified homeopath and licensed counselor. I work with clients over the phone, providing information, resources and homeopathic consultations. In my 25 years as a vet, I've practiced both conventional and alternative medicine

Today I use alternative healing modalities for both people and animals. I help people to find the source of the problem, whatever that may be, and then address it at that level.

I help people who are:

- seeking homeopathic treatments for their animals
- feeling pressured to make difficult medical decisions
- seeking meaning or answers through illness, or in their human-animal relationship
- struggling with end-of-life decisions
- needing guidance while providing home hospice care for their animal
- feeling overwhelmed or confused about alternative/complementary therapy choices
- wanting to be a more active partner in their animal's health care

I love to empower people to make decisions that feel intuitively right for them. While sometimes people under stress wish there was one true answer and someone to tell them what that answer is, I work with people who want individualized answers and options for health care. To me, the best answer takes many things into consideration: time, values, home and work situation, and of course, the personality and specific needs of the animal and human.

Common topics are:

- vaccines -- individualized protocols and alternatives
- improving your animal's diet, including grain-free or home-prepared foods
- supplements for specific conditions
- emotional causes of problems, and how to treat them
- how to improve communication with your animal, family or primary care vet
- addressing feelings of frustration, anxiety, guilt and grief
